

Wilson & Morgan 584 Caol Ila 12YO Signature Bourbon Matured, 48% ABV, 2013-2025

This release is the result of vatting of six first fill ex-bourbon barrels, where the whisky spent the whole 56 months after being in refill hogsheads.

A very balanced aroma of sweet vanilla and smoky notes of the tar spectrum, they keep the balance for a very long time, nothing sticks out, very rounded, soft and delicate aroma. Over the time in the glass, the peat begins to pull the blanket over to itself.

The body is a little denser than average, an excellent silky texture, a lot of confectionery sweetness, ashy smoky notes, the peat is playing a decent role in the taste, it is very pleasant and perfectly "mounted" together with the tannic phenols. Everything that was promised by the nose is clearly manifested in the taste to the fullest.

The aftertaste is spicy, warm, low, quite long, vanilla ice cream, milk chocolate. The result: this is an excellent vatting of smoky whisky with a flavor palette of ex-bourbon maturation. An additional 5 degrees of the strength in relation to the regular 12YO release play a very important role here, as well as the fresh first fill barrels – the texture is better, there is more power, sweetness and wood here. We can say that this release is a regular one on steroids. 85,5 (21,5+21,5+21+21,5)
