

BunnahabhainTM
ISLAY SINGLE MALT SCOTCH WHISKY

WESTERING HOME SERIES #2

AN CUAN GARBH NO.1 GLOBAL RELEASE

DISCOVER BUNNAHABHAIN,

A FORMIDABLE DISTILLERY ESTABLISHED IN 1881, PRONOUNCED {BUNN-NA-HA-VENN}, MEANING 'MOUTH OF THE RIVER' IN SCOT'S GAELIC. INSPIRED BY OUR UNIQUE LOCATION AT THE MOUTH OF THE MARGADALE SPRING, WE CRAFT UNPEATED ISLAY SINGLE MALT SCOTCH WHISKY LIKE NO OTHER.

Nestled in one of the most remote corners of Islay, Bunnahabhain's heritage is as rich as the mineral-laden waters of the Margadale spring from which we draw. Our warehouses, exposed to the bracing sea air, impart a distinctive maritime influence on our casks, shaping the exceptional character of our whisky.

Leading the way in sustainability, Bunnahabhain is the first distillery on Islay with its own Biomass plant, harnessing sustainable fuel sources to power our operations. This commitment ensures our legacy continues in harmony with the environment.

Bunnahabhain is a formidable character, known for being distinctively and unapologetically unpeated, unlike most Islay malts. Crafted by steadfast, unapologetic and passionate whisky makers, Bunnahabhain is a robust, complex, and oily spirit. Married with the finest sherry casks, results in a rich and creamy mouthfeel that is distinctly Bunnahabhain and always non-chill filtered with no added colour.

At the helm are Julieann Fernandez, our Master Blender, and Andrew Brown, our Distillery Manager. Together, they ensure every drop of Bunnahabhain is crafted with the utmost care and precision. Our hands-on methods and meticulous selection of the finest casks stand as a testament to our relentless pursuit of quality.

At Bunnahabhain, we are on an odyssey of perseverance, steadfast in our commitment to crafting whisky that is both unique and exceptional.

THE WESTERING HOME COLLECTION

Rooted in the anthem of Islay, Westering Home, this collection pays homage to Bunnahabhain's rich heritage and the song that previously graced the labels of our bottlings.

The collection tells a story - one of Islay, its people, and the profound journey home to community and loved ones. Just as Westering Home resonates with the universal longing for connection, the series embodies the spirit of returning to the island, sharing experiences and celebrating with a like-minded community united by a shared love for whisky.

As a 3 year series we connect each release with part of the odyssey back to Islay; from Setting Sail, The Journey itself, and Homeward Bound.

WESTERING HOME SERIES 2

"An Cuan Garbh" is the second series of The Westering Home collection and pays tribute to the long and often perilous journey across the sea home to Islay.

As the whisky matures in casks, it undergoes change - developing depth, character, and complexity, much like a ship weathering storms and navigating uncharted waters. With every passing year bringing further complexity, just as every wave and storm tests those who dare to explore. It's a testament to patience, craftsmanship, and the beauty of evolution - where time and wood work in harmony to create something extraordinary.

AN CUAN GARBH

An Cuan Garbh, Scots Gaelic for “The Rough Sea,” marks the heart of the journey - a time of challenge, transformation and discovery.

Much like a ship navigating turbulent waters, our whisky endures the trials of maturation, resting in casks that shape its character.

Slumbering in Bunnahabhain’s coastal warehouses, the spirit draws depth from oak and sea air, evolving year after year into something richer, more complex and profoundly rewarding.

AN CUAN GARBH NO.1

15 Year Old White Port Cask Finish

ABV: ABV 51.6%

Cask story: Finished in white port casks from Portugal's Douro Valley, it carries the richness of distant shores and the reward of the journey's end. Waves of orchard fruit, peach, and apricot break against bright notes of candied citrus, before easing into smooth layers of honeyed almonds, toasted malt, and gentle spice.

TASTING NOTES:

Appearance: Golden Amber

Nose: Honeysuckle, elderflower, orchard fruit, candied citrus, honey warmth.

Palate: Peach, apricot candied lemon zest, honeyed almonds, toasted malt, ginger spice.

Finish: Lingering nutty warmth with sweet candied fruit

BUNNAHABHAIN

BRAND INFORMATION

PRODUCTION PROCESS FACT FILE

There are two different spirits produced at Bunnahabhain: Bunnahabhain and Peated Bunnahabhain (Moine). The two spirits are produced using the same stills, washbacks and mash tun with the same process water.

Both spirits, however, are totally different in character due to the malted barley used. Spirit cut is slightly later for the peated (or Moine) as the phenolic flavours come off towards the end of the spirit run.

BARLEY BUNNAHABHAIN

Unpeated Pot Still Malted Barley.

MOINE

Peated Pot Still Malted Barley.

WATER MARGADALE SPRING

Bunnahabhain is the only distillery on Islay to produce whisky using pure spring water in its production.

MASH TUN

15 tonnes stainless steel copper topped mash tun, currently doing an 8.5 tonne mash with a 7 hour mash cycle.

WASH BACKS

6 Oregon pine (capacity 100,000 litres each). Fermentation are a minimum of 54 hours.

Some of the warehouses along the shore front date back to 1881.

Warehousing capacity for 14,600 casks, containing a mix of butts, hogsheads and barrels.

FEATURES & BENEFITS

FEATURES

Established in 1881 with a history of seafaring, as illustrated by the helmsman iconography.

Built close to the Margadale River where the pure spring water is piped to the distillery; the only distillery on Islay to use natural spring water with no Peat influence.

Bunnahabhain means 'Mouth of The River' in Gaelic.

Most northerly distillery on Islay, once only accessible by boat, now only accessible by single track road.

The tallest stills on Islay.

Non-Chill Filtered and No Added Colour.

Distillation of our unique spirit on the shores of Bunnahabhain Bay.

Rich with complex layers.

Highly awarded core range and limited editions.

All wooden washbacks.

BENEFITS

Heritage & tradition are key drivers for the Bunnahabhain consumer.

Producing a smooth, unpeated spirit, unlike most Islay malts.

Authentic 'sense of place'.

Supports the remote feel and essence of the brand. Drives the sense of pilgrimage required to visit.

Produces a more delicate flavour.

Authentic character, colour & taste.

Coastal, sea air influences the character of the whisky, producing an interesting and unusual briny undertone in our whiskies.

A truly unique Islay malt, appreciated by connoisseurs.

Reassurance for consumers that they are investing in a consistently high-quality product.

Natural bacteria in the wood interacts with the yeast and sugars, creating rich, complex flavours.

FAQS

How do you say it?

Bunnahabhain, pronounced {Bunn-na-ha-venn} meaning 'mouth of the river' in Scots Gaelic. Inspired by our location and spring water source, The Margadale Spring.

What is your House Style?

Unpeated and heavily sherried Single Malt Whisky.

Bunnahabhain is a formidable character, known for being distinctively and unapologetically unpeated, unlike most Islay malts. Our natural spring water source, the Margadale Spring is untouched by the Islay peat bogs.

How long is your fermentation process?

Bunnahabhain's fermentation process combines patience and accuracy. Wort is drained into six Oregon pine washbacks, at 70,000L where it ferments for at least 52 hours. The wooden washbacks' natural bacteria interact with yeast and sugars, creating rich, complex flavours.

What casks do you use?

Master Blender, Julieann Fernandez, carefully selects each cask for its wood type, unique history – be it bourbon, sherry or another seasoned origin – as well as its size, age and whether it's charred or toasted. Ensuring every cask allows our unique spirit to sing.

Why 46.3% ABV?

46.3% ABV = No chill-filtration + Bigger flavour + Intentional precision + Premium authenticity.

Do Bunnahabhain have Peated expressions?

While our house style is unpeated - there are two different spirits produced at Bunnahabhain: Bunnahabhain and Peated Bunnahabhain (Moine). The two spirits are produced using the same stills, washbacks and mash tun with the same process water.

Both spirits, however, are totally different in character due to the malted barley used. Spirit cut is slightly later for the peated (or Moine) as the phenolic flavours come off towards the end of the spirit run.

Does Bunnahabhain use chill filtration or use colouring?

No – all our single malt whisky is Non-chill filtered with no added colouring.

What is Fèis Ìle ?

Fèis Ìle is Islay's annual celebration of whisky and music, held each year from late May into early June.

It's a time when the island comes alive—welcoming whisky lovers from around the world to experience Islay's spirit, culture, and community.

For Bunnahabhain, it's a moment to share our story, our craft, and our connection to this unique place.
